A despatch from Niagara Falls conveys the far from unpleasing news that the bust in which Charles D. Graham proposed to make a voyage over the falls was sent cut on a trial trip and was smashed to pleece in the raging waters. This should be sufficient to give Graham effective pause in his reckless course. To undertake to go over the falls is simply to invite death. The chances of coming out alive are hot one in a million. The man who is willing to risk his life in this way does not describ to have it preserved, but as such an exam-ple is contagious among certain minds the welfare of society demands that he should be locked up until cored of his man folly.

A Party Without Principles. Scuator Morrill gives a sketch of modern Democracy in the July Forum, in which he says among other things: The Demo- / lunero cratic party in earlier days had some fixed principles, everywhere openly proclaimed, but it has none now save whatever its na-tional conventions claborate to fit such presidential candidates as Greeley, Hancock or Gleveland, and subject to quadcock or Gleycland, and subject to quadrennial change, and mystilleation. Once "States" rights and the resolutions of 33" were in the forefront of the Democratic creed, but all this his vanished, and no one how pretends to fear national division of the rights of any State. Another ringing article of their creed was hard money, Bertonian gold lastead of paper money, which they denounced as being made only of "rags and lampblack." Strange to say Bangor City of drags and lampblack." Strange to say Omaha City there is hardly anything now that can be invested, for circulation too cheap or to Minneapolis City soft and rickety for the major part of the party.
